ABOUT THE ACTORS

Jack Jeffery, who plays Bob McKellaway tonight is perhaps our "most familiar face," this being his tenth appearance in an Iola Community Theatre production, and his fifth appearance as a major character. Jack has also directed two of our productions.

Mary Martin, who appears in the title role tonight, has been active in many phases of our Community Theatre. Her acting credits include four productions with major roles in "Barefoot in the Park" and "Mary, Mary."

Nancy Groneman, appearing as Tiffany Richards, is a new face to the stage as this is her first role. Nancy is a business teacher at Allen County Community Junior College and this is her first year in Iola. We hope to see more of her.

Ray Willson plays the part of Oscar Nelson tonight. This is his second appearance with the Iola Community Theatre, his first being in the chorus of "Mame." Ray is consultant for the Southeast Kansas Library System and has lived in Iola for four years.

Jim Smith has also been very active in our Community Theatre. Since his first appearance in June, 1969, Jim has been active in some phase of every production. His acting credits include roles in "Night Must Fall," "Mame," "Wait Until Dark" and tonight he is Dirk Winston in "Mary, Mary."

ABOUT THE DIRECTOR

"Mary, Mary" is the first production Gary Hageman has directed for the Community Theatre. He also appeared in a major role in "Mame." He is an English teacher in the Iola High School.
